Chip Carving with JoAn Brueggeman

JoAn Brueggeman will teach chip carving this Saturday. Get there early to get a seat. It should be fun.

HAWC Show Update

The HAWC 2019 Show, Sale & Competition will be held October 19(Saturday) at Faith Lutheran Church. The classes this year will be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday preceding the Saturday Show. It's not too early to start planning for the show and classes.

Instructors for the show classes, include Orlando

Villarreal, a world class instructor and carver. Orlando specializes in aquatic and wildlife wood sculptures. Projects he will teach are a blue marlin bust, a river otter, an eagle bust or a turtle. He will be using butternut for the project.

Wanda Reichert will make a return to the Houston show. She will teach an Orca whale carving and painting, using either power or hand carving. Danny will join her at the show to sell wood and various carving items.

Volunteers for the Show will be needed for various assignments. To volunteer for the Show contact Buddy Ives, Show Chairman.

President's Message

So long Cleburne

The final Texas Woodcarver's Guild spring Roundup in Cleburne was a lively one, with considerable participation from HAWC members. We were well represented as exhibitors, instructors and seminar participants. Fred Carter came close to winning another Best-of-

Show, finishing second to Ronnie Zint of Hillsboro. Ronnie's carvings won the North American Championship in Louisiana and the World Championship in Ocean City, Maryland last year, so Fred is in pretty good company. I was very happy to be awarded a plaque for Best Exhibit Table. I'm certain that other HAWC members also did well, but I'm sorry to admit that I didn't get a chance to check on how everyone fared. I'll be sure to acknowledge all of you at the meeting.

See you on Saturday for the HAWC monthly meeting.
