MEETING CANCELLED!

President's Message

Hello my fellow wood carvers, I hope this message finds you well and I hope that you made it safely through our record breaking snow fall! We had 5.5" here in Baytown, we definitely had a nice snow day. I was able to spend the day in the shop carving. Silver lining and all.

I wish that I was the bearer of good news, but alas, I'm not. I know that we were not able to meet last month, and we believed that we were locked in for a room reservation for February, and we were. We received an email earlier this week that Bayland Community Center is having plumbing problems and has canceled everyone's reservations for the weekend of the 15th to make the needed repairs. This has caused us considerable stress. Shen, Jamie and Carolyn have been diligently trying to get us another meeting place for this month and has met with one obstacle after another. You can imagine our frustrations with this news. I know that this also frustrates you as well. The recent accommodations or lack of, has been very challenging and we ask for your patience and understanding in this matter. Having said that, we will have to cancel this month's meeting. I want to thank Shen, Jamie and Carolyn for all their efforts in trying to get us another meeting place. We appreciate your patience and understanding in this matter. If anything changes, we will send out another email with the update. We look forward to meeting in the month of March.

Thank you,
Kenan

Woodworking Demonstration

Jesse Jones Park and Nature Center in Humble, Texas, are planning to have a woodworking program on Saturday, March 8 in their 1820's homestead village. The program is open to the public. They invited us to do a woodworking demonstration, preferably with tools from that era. We have some tools here. We will also have an activity after the demonstration. If you would like to represent HAWC and participate, please contact Carolyn Smith, 832-877-6534, or carolynann@consolidated.net for contact details for Jesse Jones Park.
